

Principal's Message

Dear Parents and Carers,

This week, I have seen some good examples of our school value of 'ambition'.

The Y6 pupils have evaluated their jobs and thought about the skills they are developing to help prepare themselves for the world of work.

We have had a class of children attending 'Into University' sessions each day where they have been studying Ancient Greece with some real experts. Today they attend Nottingham University campus for a graduation ceremony. I'm sure the professors will be impressed by Ambleside Academy pupils and remember their names for when some apply for university places in 2025!

We have welcomed some former pupils back to Ambleside for work experience placements and I have been impressed by their commitment, hard work and professionalism.

KS1 pupils have been working hard to improve their reading as they know that this will help them be great learners in all subject areas. Thanks to those of you who are reading regularly with your children at home. Next week there will be prizes for those who have read 4 times a week, 4 times. Every opportunity to read really does help!

Ms J Bromley
Principal

You have to be responsible to do your job. You have to have manners, and you must be friendly. It's fun for me to have a job and I'm glad I signed up. It'll help me when I'm older to get a job.
